The planning board to host proposed developer of an agri-voltaic solar farm on Roaring Brook Road who will present for informal public review the project they are contemplating.

The developer will have to go through a special permit process if they file a formal application, but this informational meeting is to let the public, and especially abutters, know of the intent and what the project will consist of and to ask questions. Abutters will also be notified and ask to attend a public hearing process if the developers follow through with a formal special permit application.
